Numerous engagements with Indians. Campaigns include those against Northern Cheyennes and Sioux, 1876-7; Nez Perces, 1877; Northern Cheyennes, 1878-9; Apaches, 1885-6; Sioux, November, 1890-January, 1891.

Troops F, G, H and L were with Gibbons' command which discovered the remains of Custer's command and relieved Reno, June 27, 1876.

1918

The regiment arrived in France in April, 1918. For several months it was employed almost entirely in remount work.

It has the distinction of being the only American Cavalry regiment that took part in the battles of the World War. It has credit for battle participation as follows:

(2) Toul Sector.
(b) Aisne-Marne Offensive.
(c) St. Mihiel Offensive.
(d) Meuse-Argonne Offensive.

A composite squadron, Troops B, D, F, H, was highly commended in letters and orders by Major Generals Summerall, Dickman and Traub for work done in the last two offensives.

The regiment arrived in the United States June 29, 1919, and was sent to Fort Riley, Kan., where it is now stationed.

Seven of our famous troops have passed into oblivion—D, H, I, K, L, M—and the Machine Gun Troop have been wiped out by law. But their letters stand out in full glory in the history of the regiment.

From Florida (and Mexico) to Montana, from New England to California and the Philippines (and in fact around the world), the Second Cavalry has ridden and fought and fought as cavalry.

United States, Mexico, Asia and Europe—we could well have the world as a part of our regimental arms. We still have South America and Africa untouched. We hope we may never leave our hoof-prints there in war. But if it ever comes you will probably find the Second Cavalry there, and as at Santiago, St. Mihiel, the Aisne and the Argonne, it will also probably be as cavalry. WE RIDE.
